

Start People International Recruitment in the Netherlands is looking for Spanish employees for the shellfish industry.

For a company that processes cockles (shellfish – berberechos) we are looking for employees. The shellfish come from abroad and are delivered for processing in the Netherlands. In the company machines put the cockles in cans and the cockles are mainly exported to Spain. The cans require a special treatment and therefore we are looking for people who have experience with the shellfish industry. We know that there are companies in Galicia who work with the same procedures and suffer from the poor market conditions or recently went bankrupt.

We are looking for:

2x - machine operator - set and maintain the production line

3x - production employee – sorting an processing shellfish

We ask:

- Experience in the shellfish industry, the machines make lids on cans
- Spanish language is sufficient, English or Dutch is an advantage
- 1 machine operator must master English or Dutch language

We offer:

- work for both men and women (couples no problem)
- day shift, depending on supply. Can be converted into 2 shifts
- salary around €1300 net production and € 1400 net operator (dayshift). If performance is good the salary will raise and there are shift-allowances
- Job starts depending on entry cockles between mid-July and 1 September
- Fixed period of 6 month for all employees
- Housing available (1 KM away from the company) and costs will be around € 300 per person per month
- Contribution in transportation to the Netherlands can be discussed
- There are bikes available for the employees
- cost health insurance in the Netherlands will be around €80 per person per month
